Further information

We keep our groups small, partly because accommodation is limited, but also because it's more fun in a small group! Accommodation is particularly limited in a couple of places on the Markha Valley trek which is why that group size is limited to 3-4 people. Depending on the group size, we will use homestays wherever possible on the Sham trek, but for example, if the group consists of 3 couples all wanting their own room, we will use guesthouses. We limit the Zanskar camping group to a maximum of 8 people since suitable camping spots are sometimes limited in size, and again it's more fun in a smaller group!

We will only confirm a trek departure when the min. group size has been reached, which is also when we will ask you to pay the deposit. For homestay treks, we will also give you a quote for arranging an individual trek should the min. group size not be reached.

If the min. group size has not been reached 2 months before the trek start date, we will contact you again to see if you would like to book an individual trek instead. At this point the trek will be removed from the trek calendar.
